ABANDON
HOPE
ALL YE
WHO ENTER
HERE

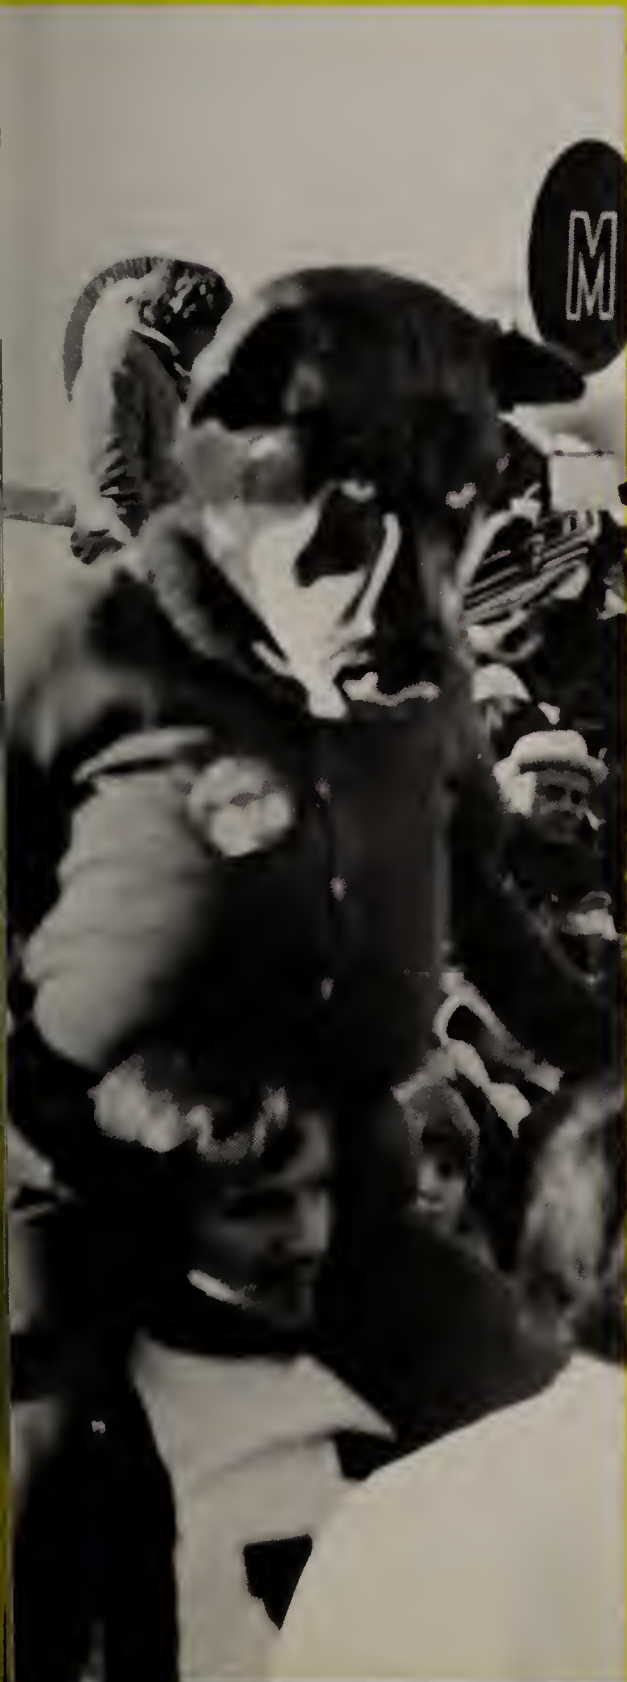

This year began as years always do — we came crawling back to the sweltering cornfields, to our “other existence.”

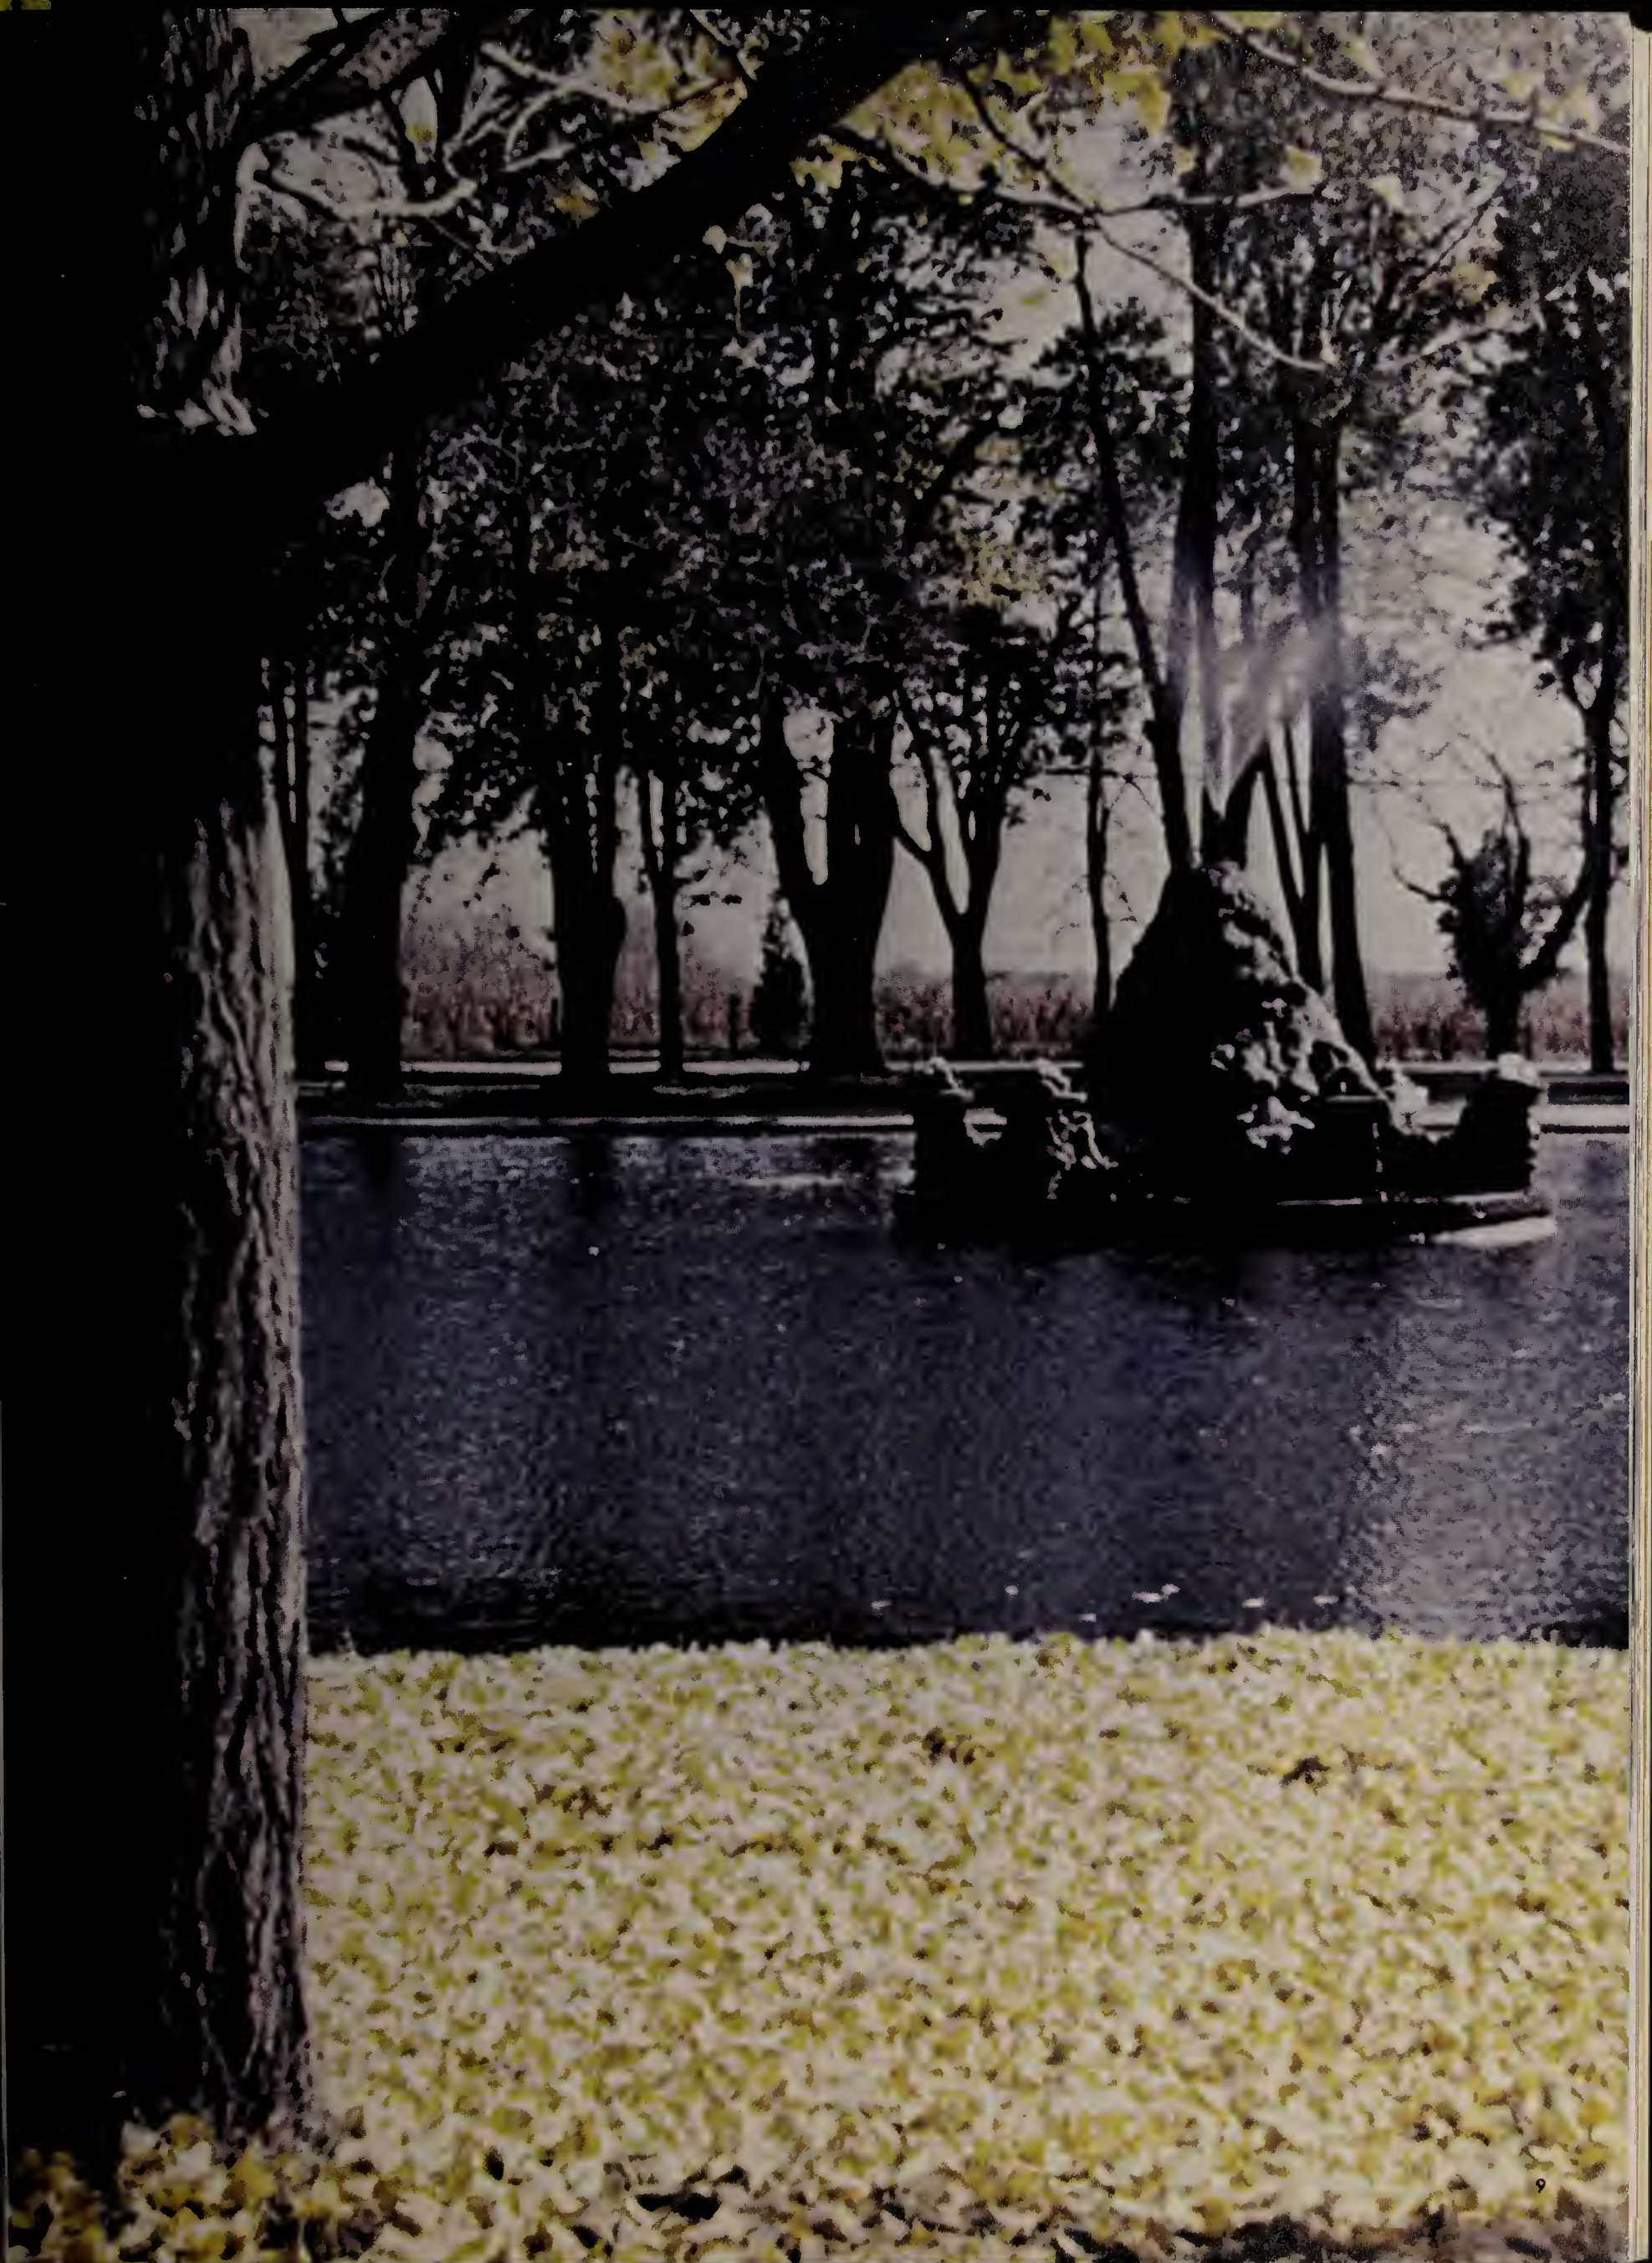

Shrieks of recognition, getting re-acquainted, adjusting to changes in appearance and personality —
longer hair, a more mellowed outlook.

Yes, we came back, but why? Why do we keep coming back here, back to the microcosmic rat race
that is Saint Joseph's College?

One look, one day spent tells us it's not the real world. So why return?

We come back to find our why. Perhaps tomorrow will bring the answer. If not, maybe the day after, or a week from Tuesday or sometime next month.

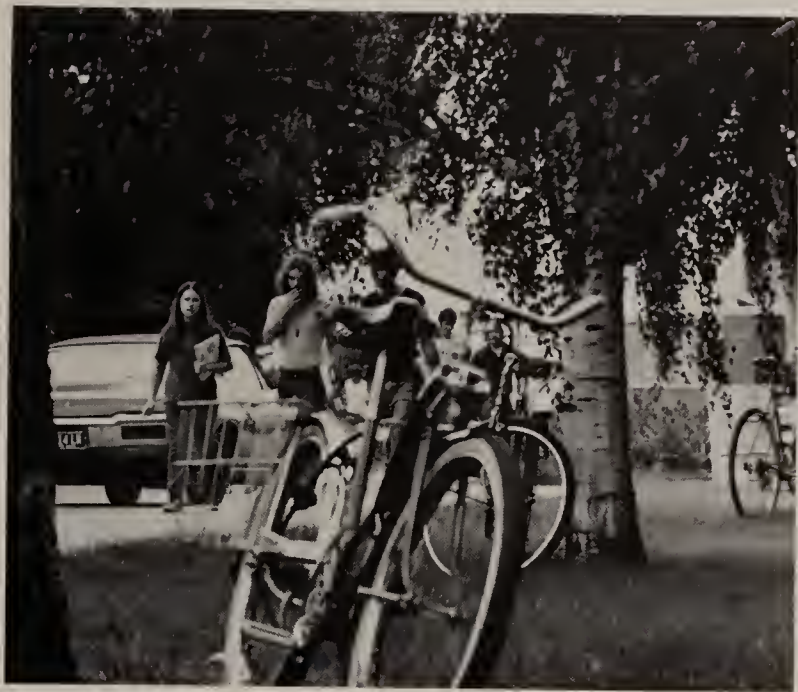

But if we can find out why, it was worth the wait — If we can get one thing accomplished, it was worth the hassle.

If we can arrive at one conclusion
it was worth the mistakes —
If we can become involved outside of ourselves,
it was worth the risk.

When I was a freshman, I thought four years would be an eternity . . .

. . . But now I am a senior, and I know that four years is only time enough to turn once around. Perhaps college taught me something after all.

"It's a good thing this isn't Las Vegas or I'd be calling home for more money."

Homecoming 1973

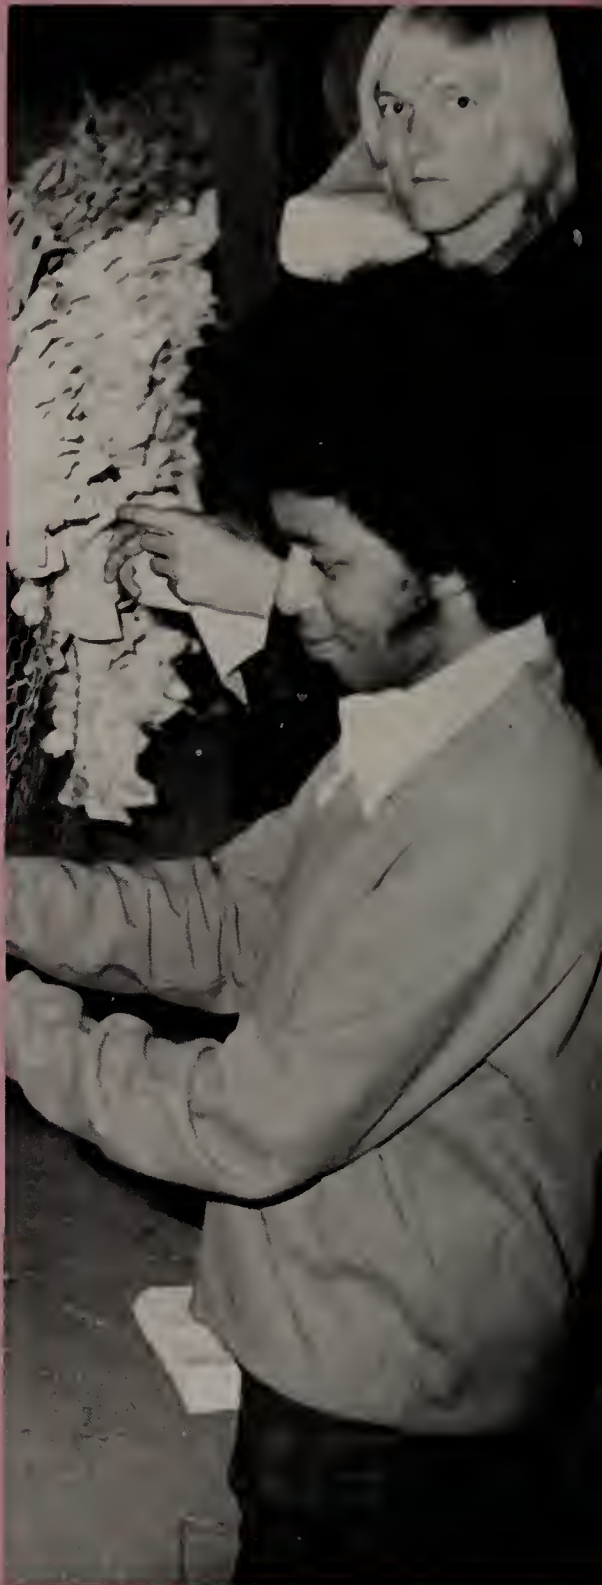

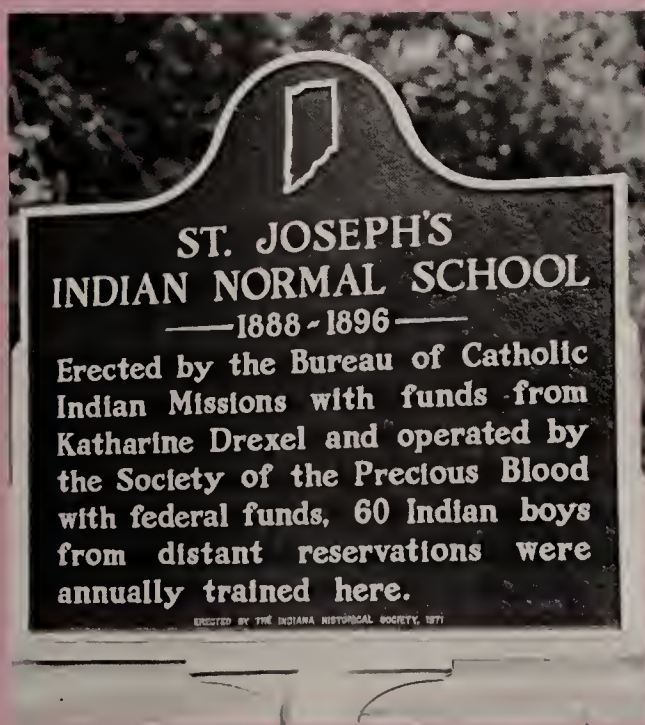

Every once in a while, you have to throw caution to the winds, stash your Core books where you won't see them, and sit in the lounge or the bar and talk and laugh and enjoy.

A little procrastination is good for the soul.

The minute you just spent
— did you really live it?
The semester you just struggled through — did you really live it? The next sixty seconds/sixty years
are the only memories
you'll ever have — toss back your head and make them live.

PUMAS

Columbian Players

Stage play production is an art which combines lighting, scenery, careful planning and the talent of ambitious players within a neatly orchestrated fashion to capture the emotions of the audience. Saint Joseph's Columbian Players injected an unmistakable aura of professionalism into their 1973-74 stage productions, thanks to long hours of practice, revision, improvement and more practice.

We're relatively small with just over 1,000 students, but there always seems to be plenty to keep us busy — tomorrow's test, yesterday's paper, plus mixers and dorm parties.

Still, there are times when there's a chance to be alone — times when you can think and form your own opinions about what is wrong and what is right about life — especially your own. When walking through the snow-carpeted grotto, while sitting in the chapel, when feeling the isolating silence of a spring shower, and sometimes even when you're in the middle of an Aquinas party, you can feel the peacefulness of solitude.

A year at Saint Joseph's gives you time to acquire part of a much-needed education; but it also gives you time to seek, and maybe find, a deeper meaning in your life.

So, today I played some ball and rode my bike. I forgot all the hassles of the everyday routine and just enjoyed life!

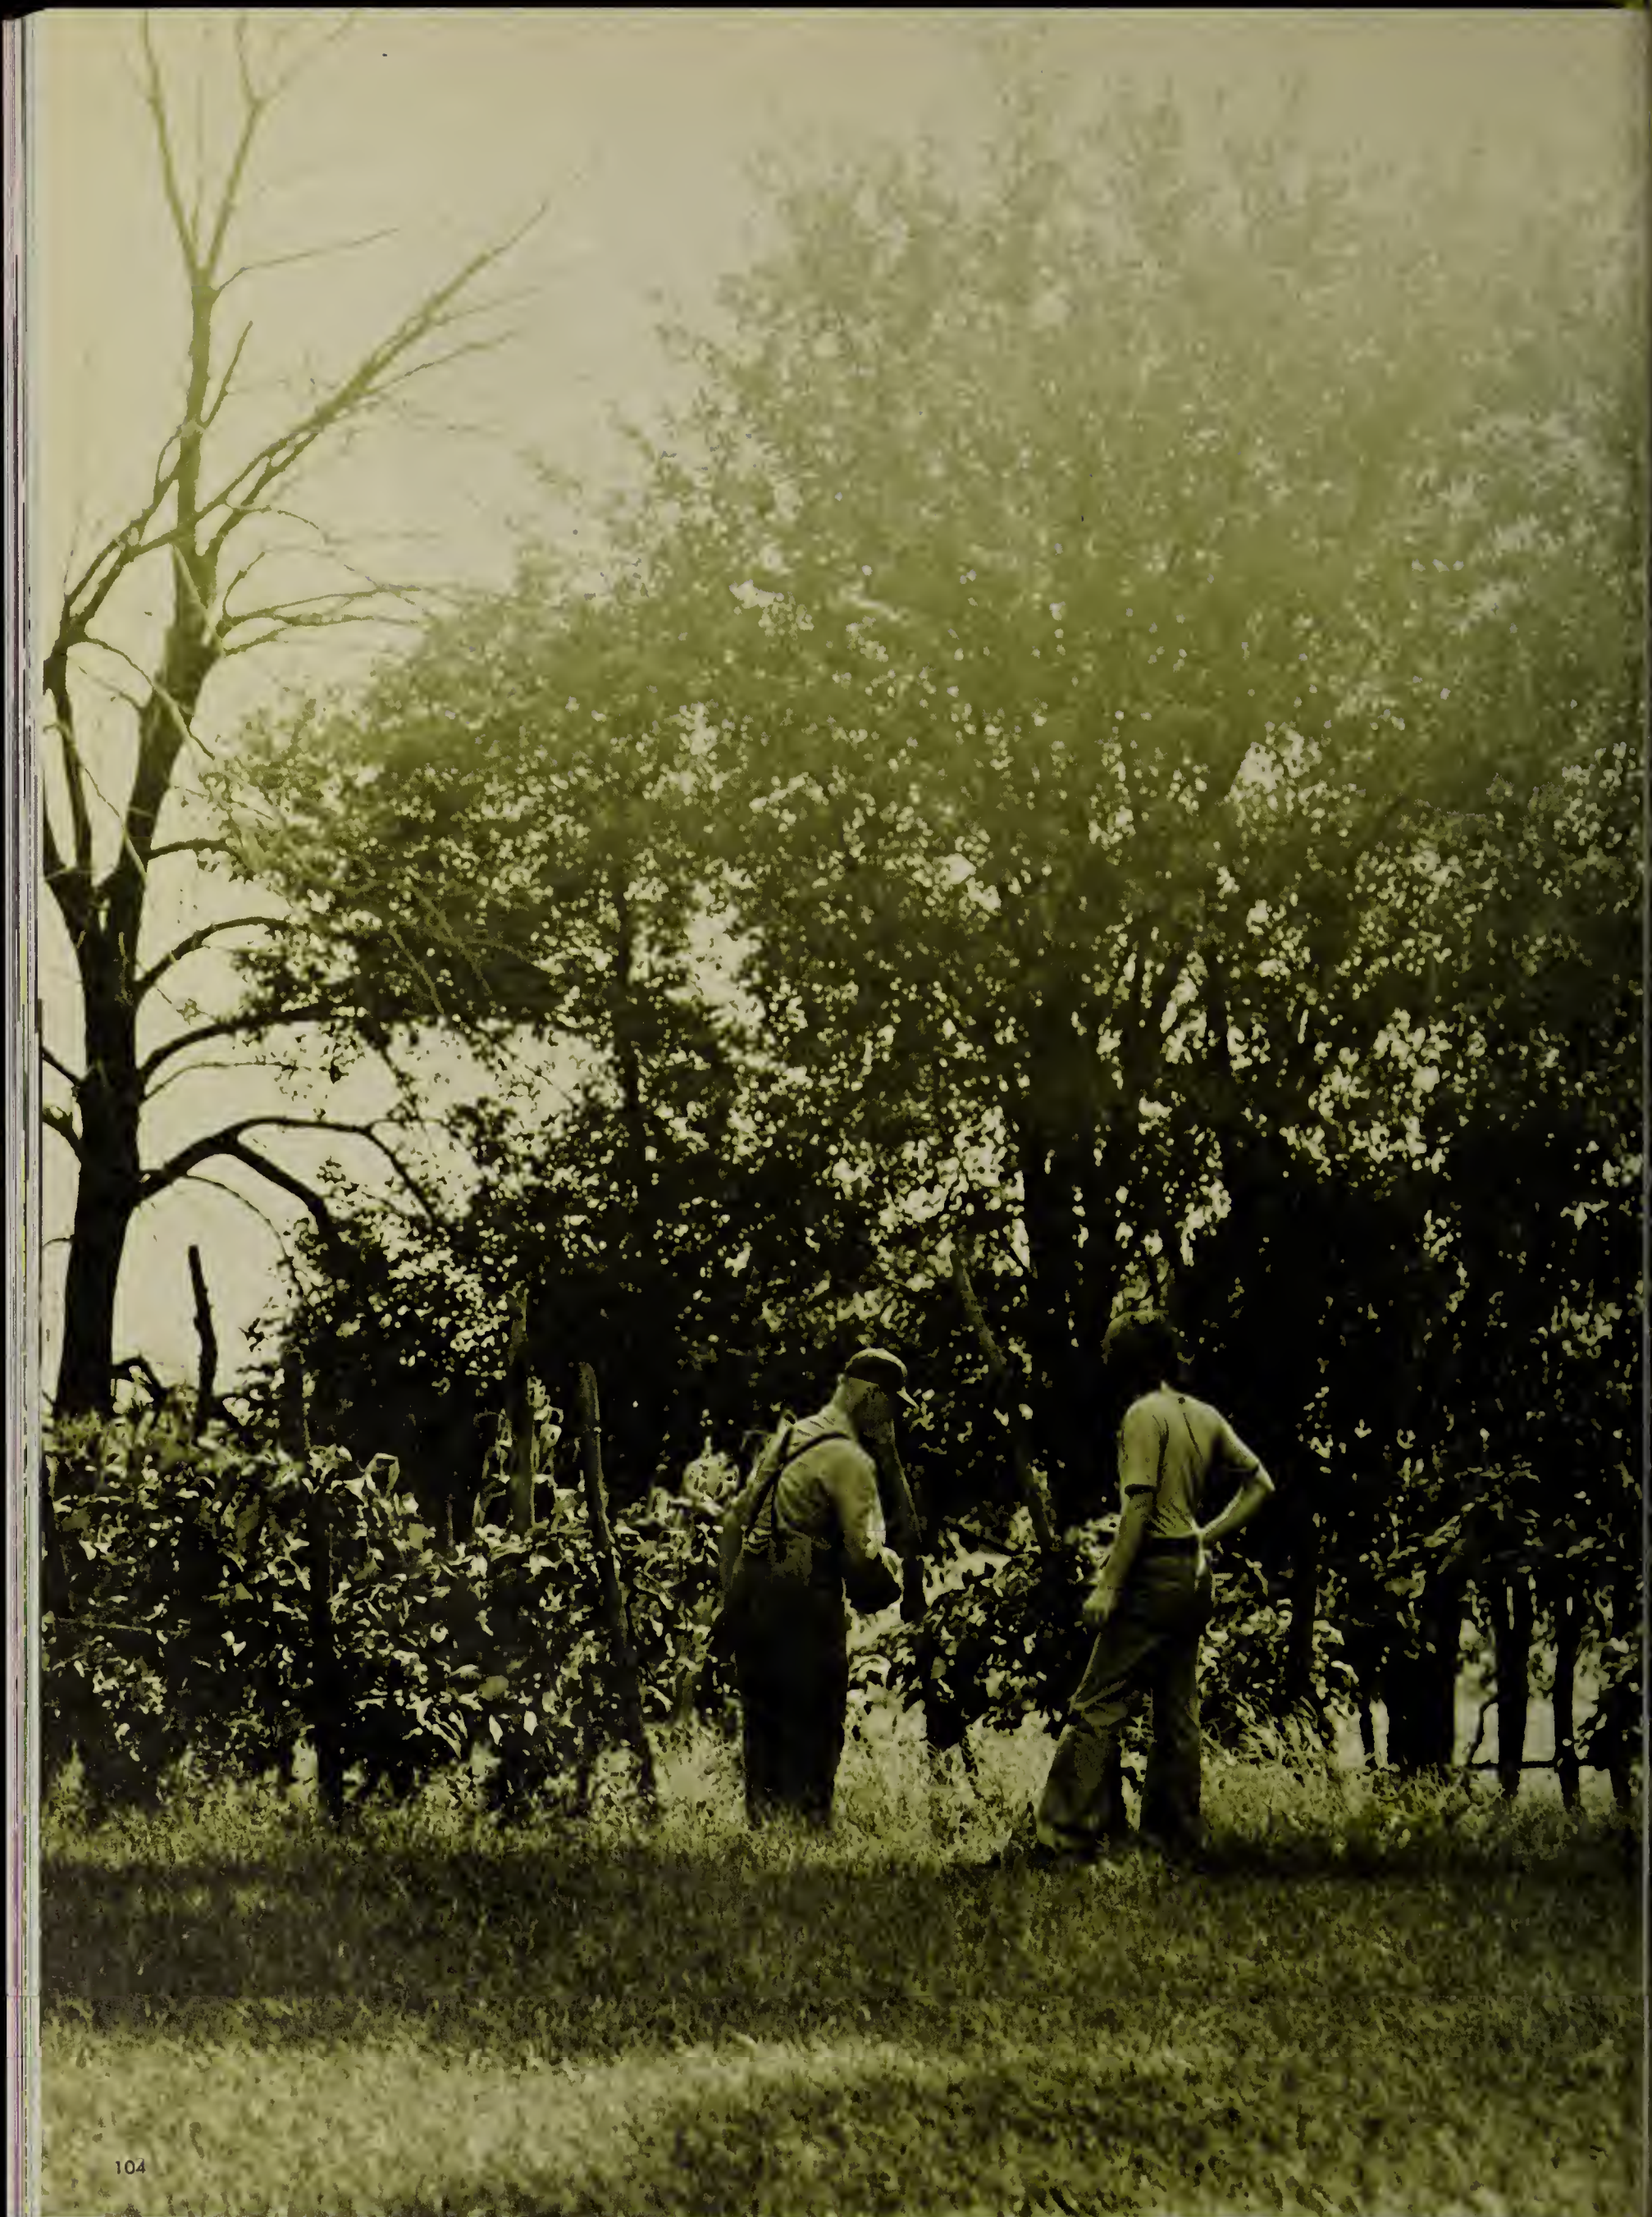

Sometimes I know my priorities are all wrong. But I'm really not sure what should have priority — studying to ace a bio test or chucking the books and heading for the nearest party.

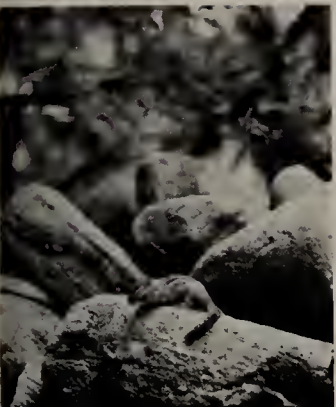

I guess I just don't know whether college is to learn about myself or just to learn.

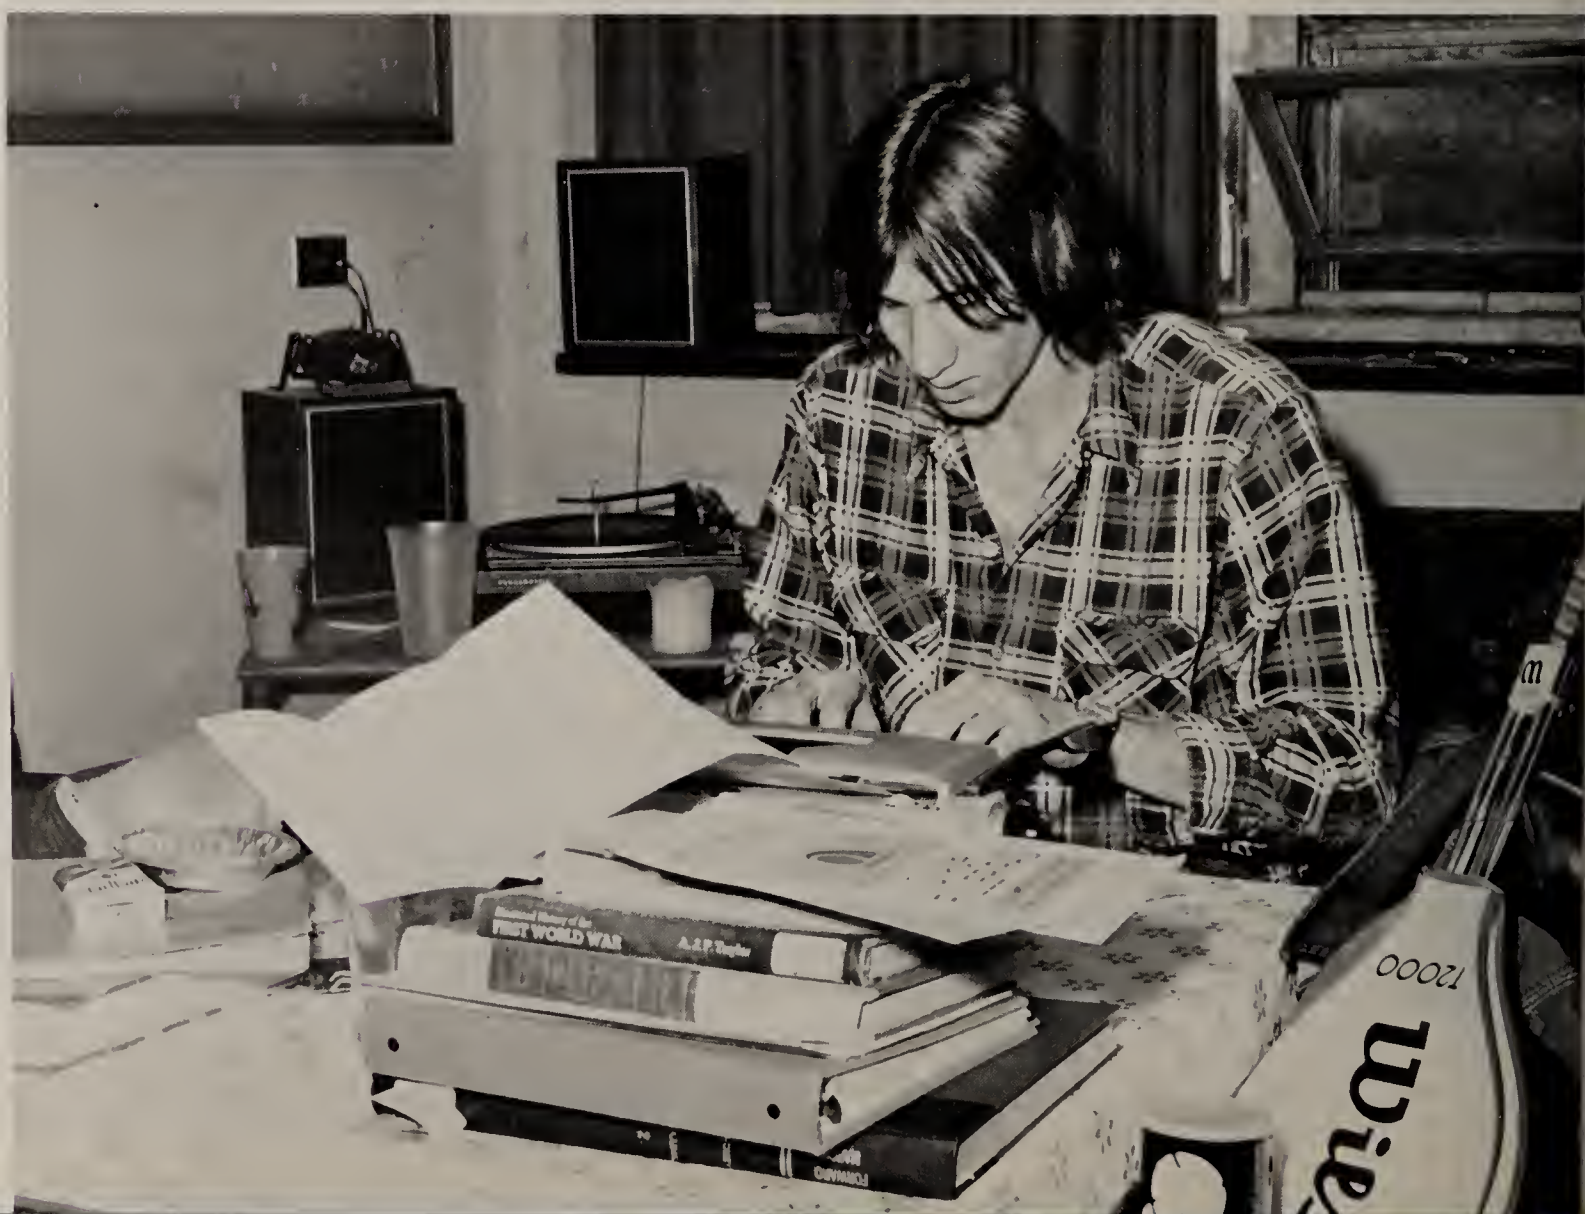

Why come all the way from Puerto Rico, New Jersey or even Chicago? There's just something about this place — maybe it really is the people that makes it worth every inch of the way.

The next time you write the day's date on the title page of your paper or on a check, look at it closely. That exact date will only occur once in your lifetime and it only exists for 24 hours. What are you going to do about it?

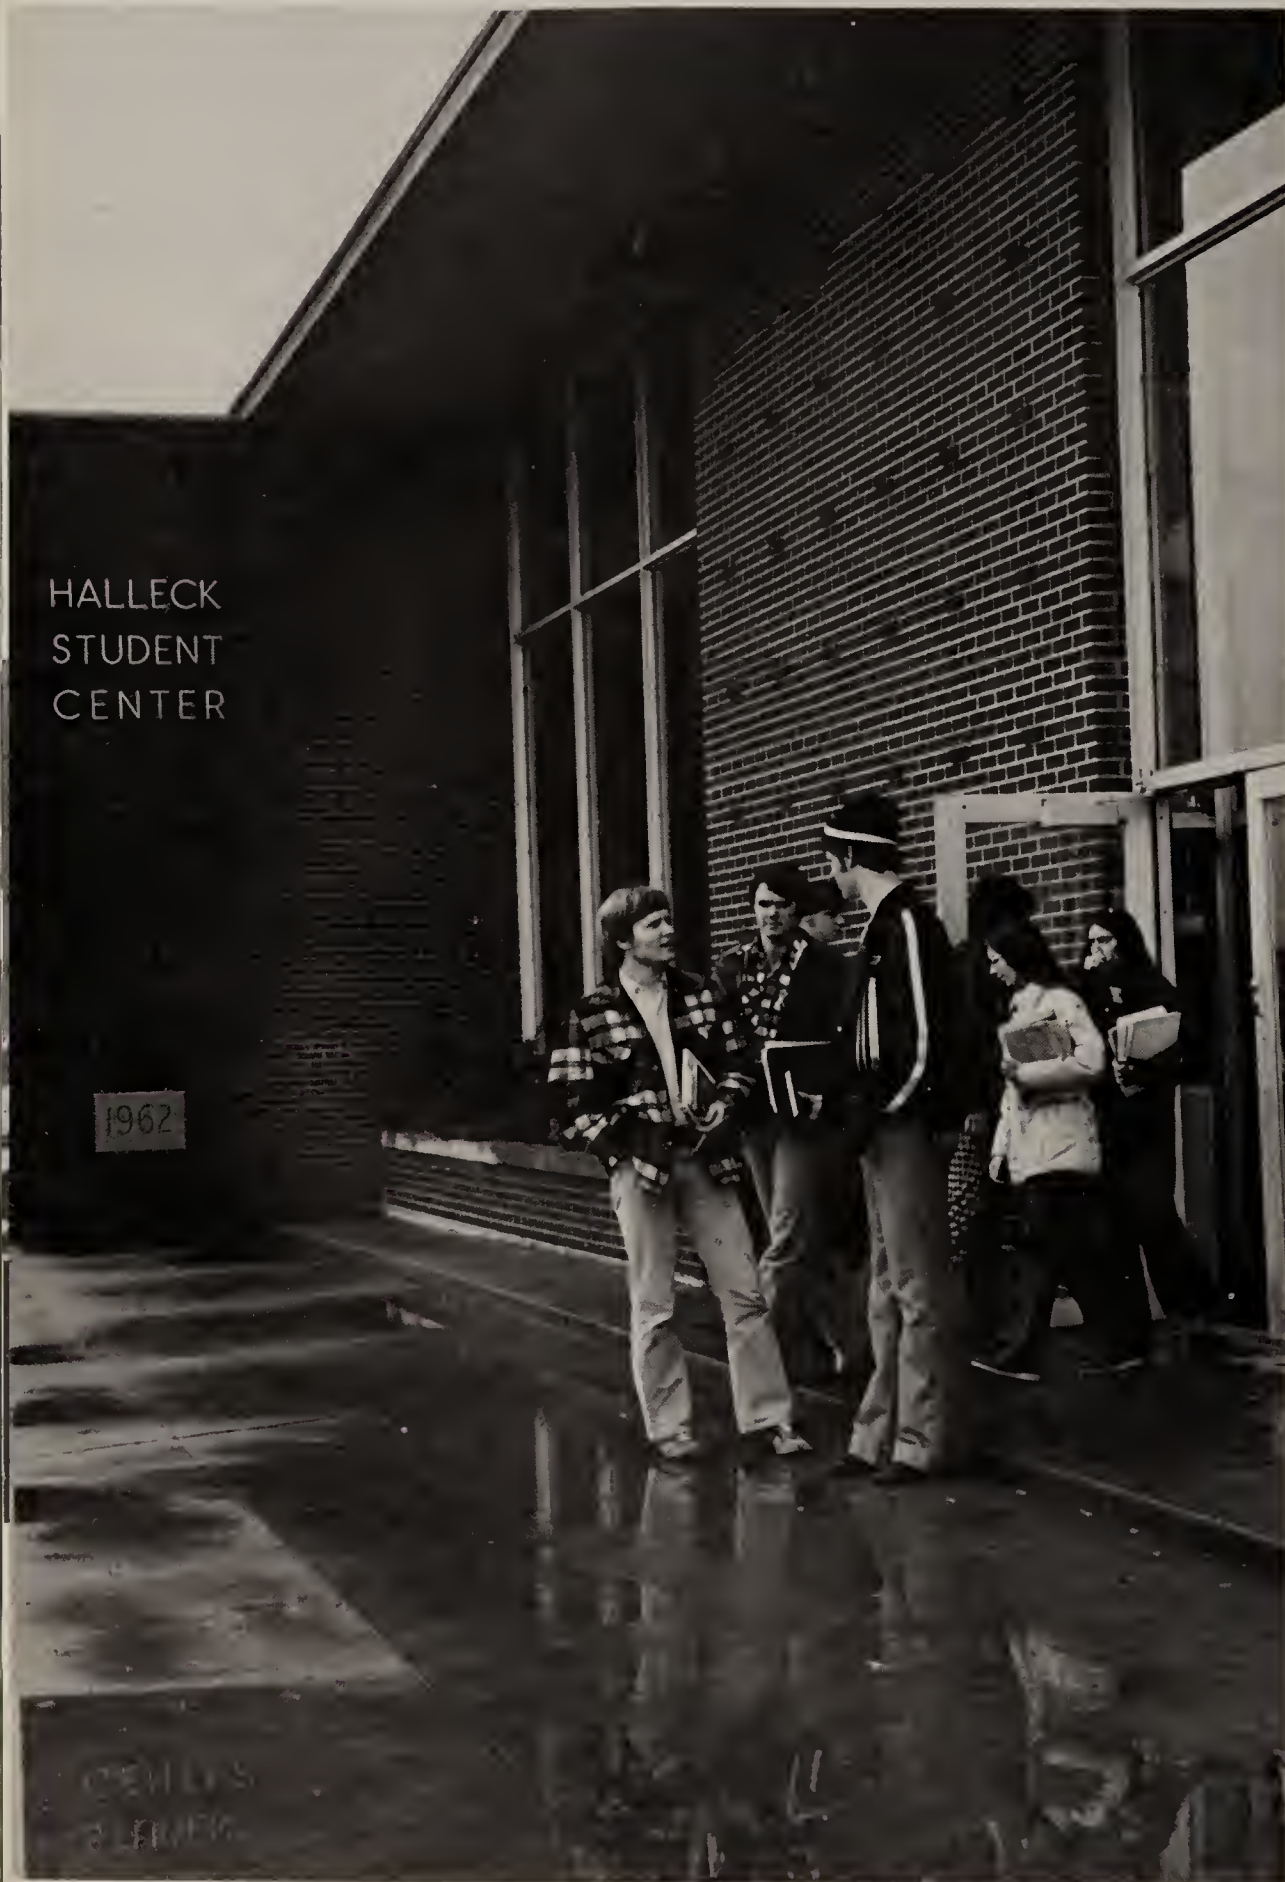

After one of those weeks that are better forgotten — after you get that overdue paper into his faculty mailbox, finish the last sentence and hand in the blue book, give up on the experiment that just won't work out — get out of the rut and into what matters.

But that's hard to do when the overall atmosphere is one of frustration and fatigue.

Little 500

Racing brings an electrical charge of excitement, tension and expectancy to the drivers, pit crews, car owners and fans. This was the dominant mood at noon on April 20, 1974, as 28 Go-Karts roared past the waving green flag to inaugurate the third annual Little 500. There followed three hours of sunshine, droning engines, fleeting moments of joy followed by frustration, skidding tires and several unfortunate accidents. But at 3 p.m., the expert driving of Dan Cuney and Joe Zingaro brought the Stenger I home four laps ahead of the field and into possession of the $500 first place money. By the time the smell of rubber and gasoline had left the track, sunburned alumni and students packed up their picnic lunches and headed to Halleck Center for that evening's final big dance of the school year.

At first glance the academic calendar is just another eight months of being a college student. It loses a lot when you look at it that way. Each one of those days will only occur once and nothing in the world could be more valuable than those seemingly endless 24-hour time spans. In August, this year seemed like too many days. Now, it was too few.

1973-74 wasn't one year or two semesters or weeks and weeks and weeks. It was a lot of little "every days" — every day the same, but no two days alike.

The four years, the countless minutes that brought us to our senior year at Saint Joe's. Three years ago this place was new — everything was exciting and different.

We learned all about dorms and 8 o'clock classes and blue books and SAGA and chapel cafeteria. We learned about Pumas and games and beer blasts. And everyone was older and we were younger and the year dragged and the year flew . . .

So we came to find the reasons and the answers. If we haven't found them yet, we may find them later, but not here. We can never walk down the steps of Halleck or the road to Drexel as Saint Joe students again. We may not have the answers to take with us, but we have the experiences and the memories.

This is a photojournalistic essay of past events, but each person on these pages is a mirror to the future, for hopes and dreams refined here are carried into the years ahead. We are now four years older, a bit wiser and ready to meet the challenges of a lifetime ahead with a lifestyle and principles shaped partially by our experience at Pumaville.

"Believe me, you will miss Saint Joseph's," intoned the commencement speaker. "You'll come back here, but it won't be as a student," added the valedictorian. "Never again will you rush to classes here, register for classes . . ."

Sobering thoughts on this bittersweet day of graduation. You have met and mastered four years of academic challenges. That alone is a major achievement as you now prepare to meet still bigger challenges in the game of life. Your joy of accomplishment is intense, yet tempered by knowledge that this is your last day together as a class, and when you return to Saint Joseph's, it won't ever be quite the same again.

A YEAR ENDS

Thus we end. Another year at Saint Joseph's is finished. Although Saint Joe's will be crawling with life again very soon, 1973-74 will forever be the same to us who made this past year a memorable one. The staff of Phase '74 has preserved the memories of this past year in a book so that in future years you will have a photojournalistic reminder of your days here — your roommate, your friends, your classes, Halleck, the pond, the grotto — in essence, your college years.

Just as this year has come to an end, so has Phase '74. We, the Phase '74 staff, hope that this yearbook has captured some of your memories of 1973-74 — the memories that you can relate to and relive 50 years from now. Some of us may never walk around the pond again or stand waiting in the cafeteria line, but the memories will always be there — in our hearts and minds — the memories that we now have.

Patience is a much-needed virtue in any yearbook advisor, which is one of the greatest assets of our advisor, Mr. Charles J. Schuttrow. The Phase '74 staff thanks him for all the help and assistance he gave us in our times of need.

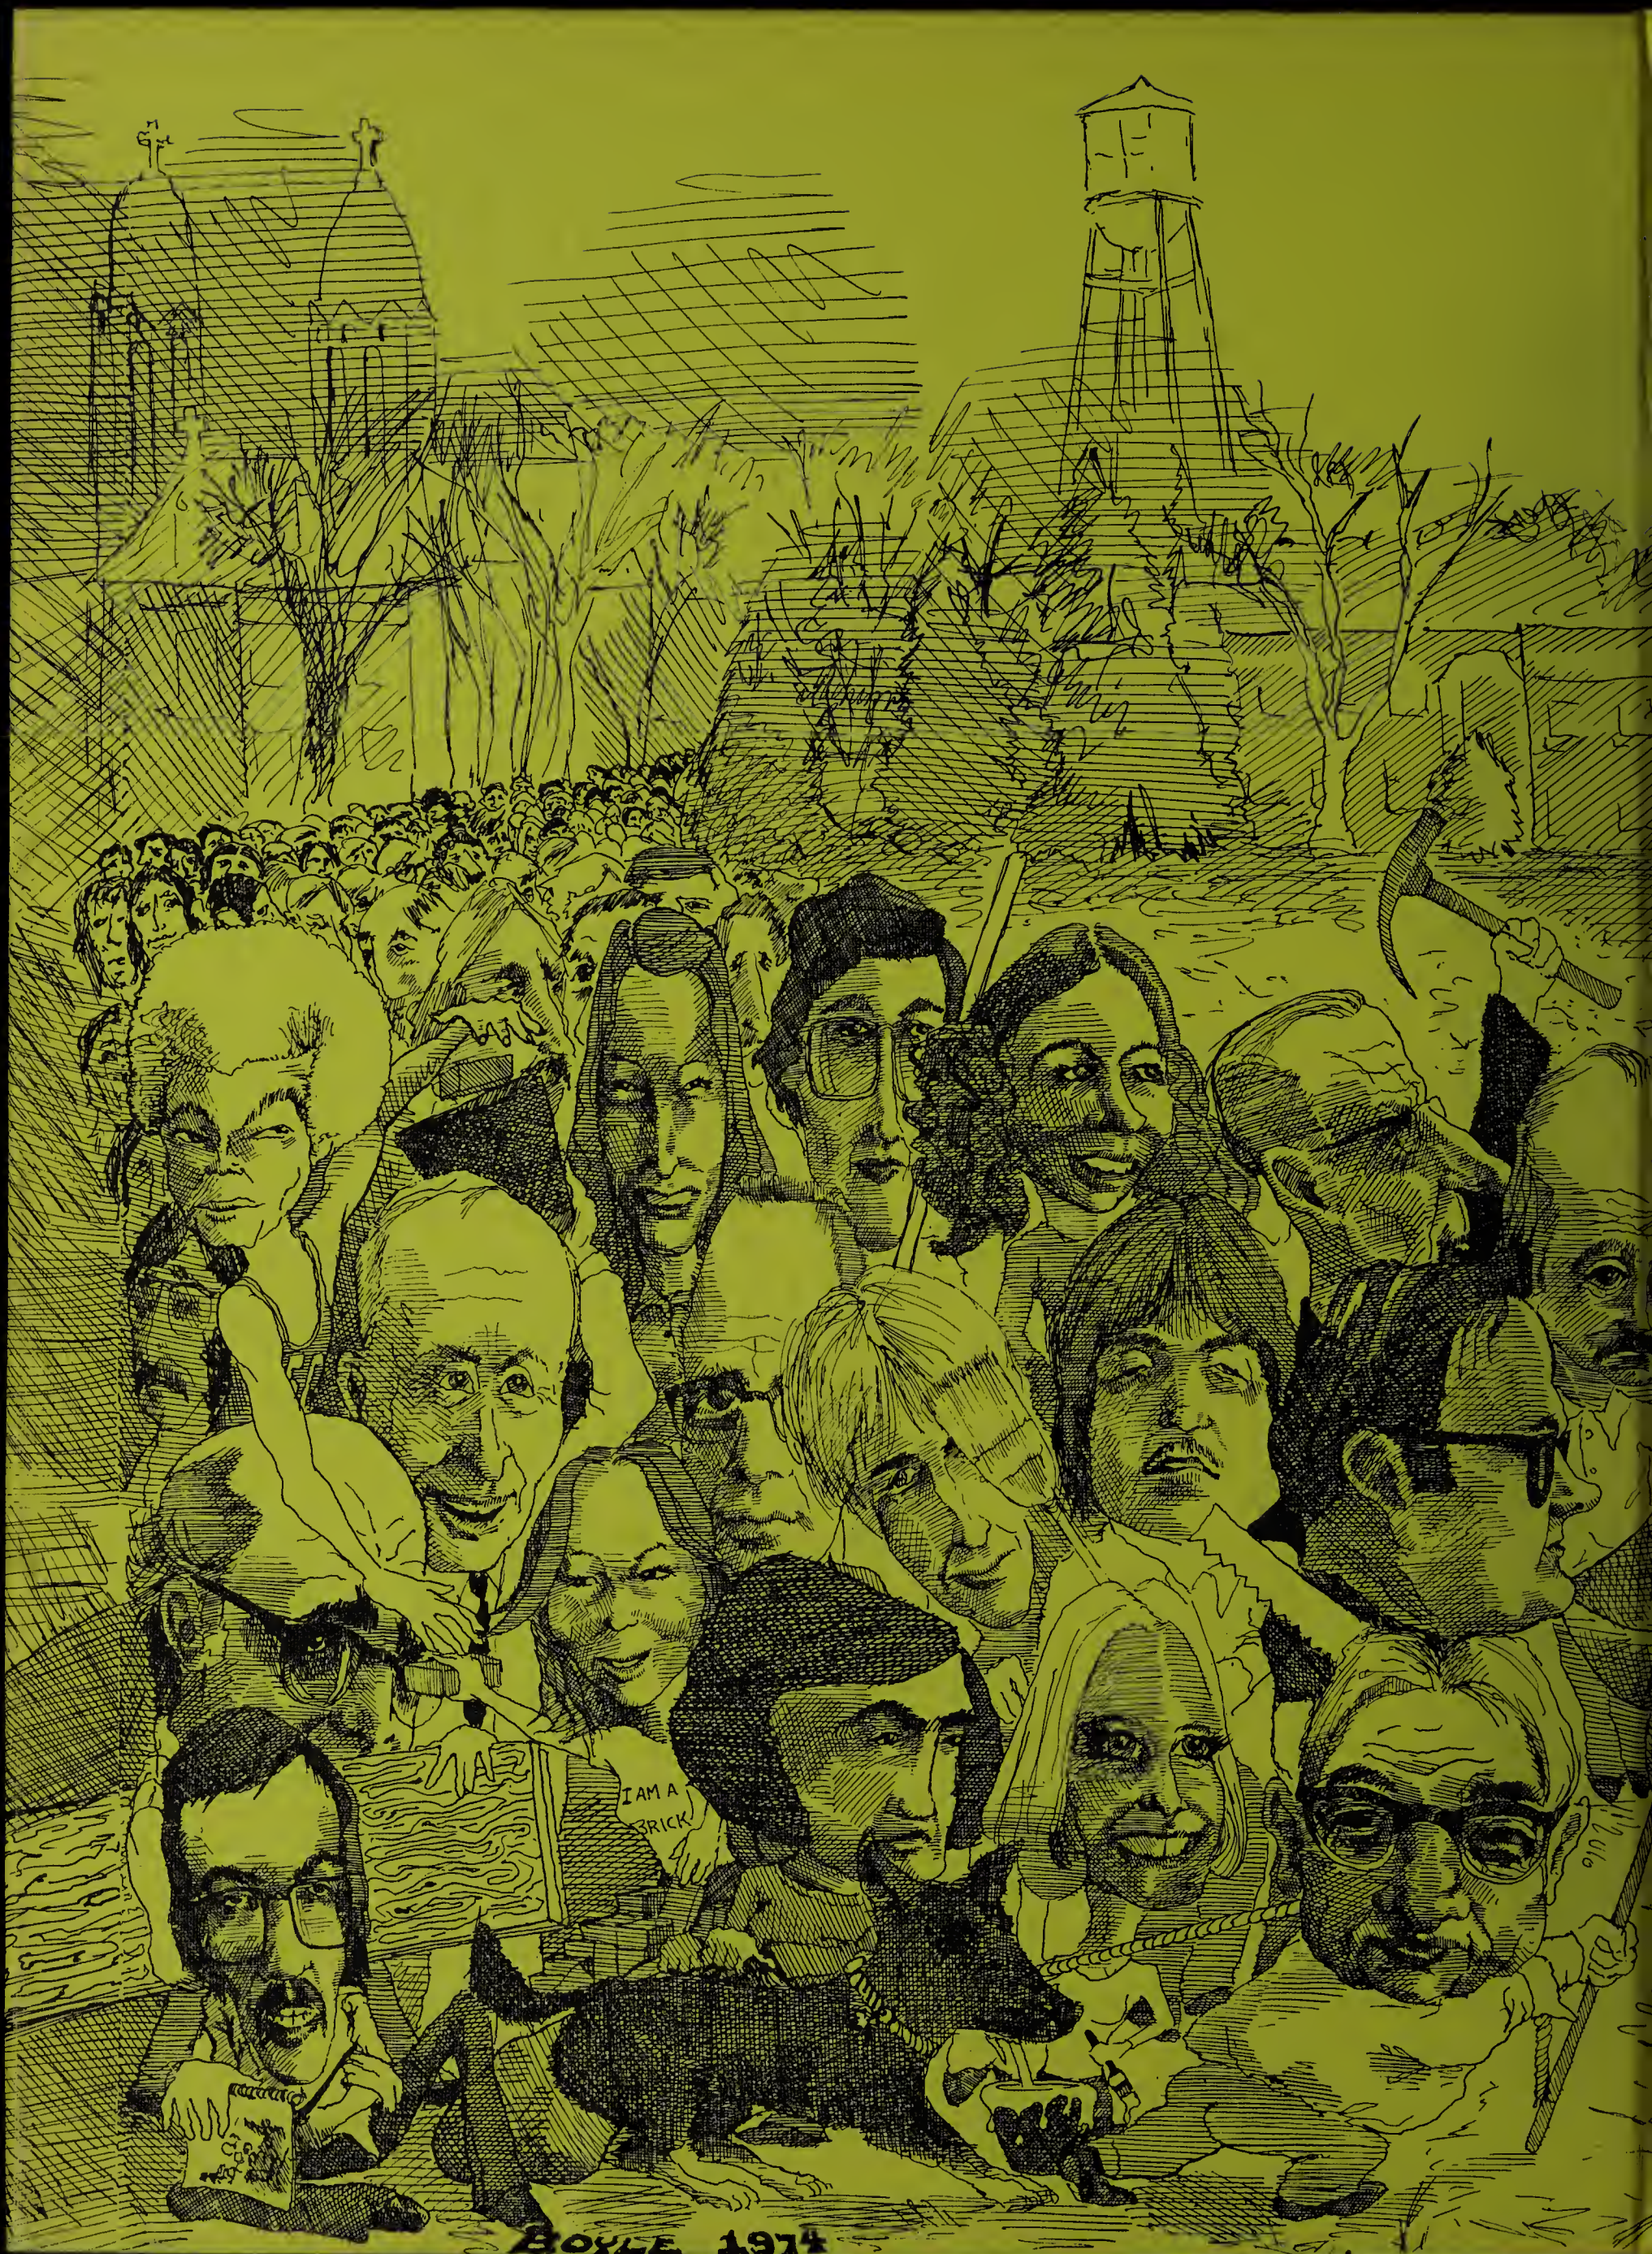

We'd like to thank Mrs. Delores Schuttrow for volunteering her services as our personal secretary. You did a great job!

We also extend our sincere thanks to Mrs. Betty Fenters, Mr. Jim Bell (our yearbook representative), Root's Photographers, and Taylor Publishing Company for making this yearbook a success.
